Rescued From Death.
William J. Conklin, of Somerville, Mass., says: In the fall of 1872 I was taken with BLENDING OF THE LUNGS followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and sleep, and was confined to my bed. In 1873 I was admitted to the Hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. At one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope but a friend told me of DR. WILLIAM HALL'S BALSA FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle, when to my surprise, I commenced to feel better, and so-day I feel better than for three years past. I write this hoping some one afflicted with Diseased Lungs will take DR. WILLIAM HALL'S BALSA. I am convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. I can positively say it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Solid Chunks of Wisdom.
Prosperity is not a just scale; adversity is the only balance to try friends.

Ho who laughs at cruelty sets his heel on the neck of religion and godliness.

Hope softens sorrow, brightens plain surroundings and eases a hard lot. If you would not be thought a fool in others' conceit, be not wise in your own.

There cannot be a greater treachery than to raise a confidence and then deceive it.

The right thing to do now and always is to keep out of debt. And don't you forget it.

When a man has positively nothing to do the devil regards it as a first-class opportunity.

Something Curious.
In Peter Tesle's orchard, near Calistoga, there is a mound of earth probably five feet higher than the ground surrounding. On this Mr. Tesle set an orange tree five years ago, and also set another one about thirty feet from the mound. The tree on the elevation of ground has never been touched with the frost, and thrives remarkably well, having a number of oranges on it at present. The other tree is frequently frost-bitten, is smaller and has no fruit on it. It will be noticed that the result produced by the slight difference in location is remarkable.

Mucilage.
Persons are often at a loss for a very strong mucilage, having sufficient power of tenacity to fasten sheets of pasteboard together. The following cement is recommended by a scientific authority: Melt together equal parts of pitch and gutta percha. To nine parts of this add three parts of boiled oil and one-fifth part litharge. Continue the heat with stirring until a thorough union of the ingredients is effected. Apply the mixture hot, or somewhat cooled, and thinned with a small quantity of benzole or turpentine oil.

How to Cook Trout.
Split nearly to the tail, wash and clean well, and fold together again. Let them lie wrapped singly in a clean dry towel for a few minutes. Dredge with flour and salt and put in a pan with fresh sweet lard, which should be hot, but not burning. Do not turn until brown enough for the table. One of the most essential things in serving trout, or fish of any kind, is to have everything hot and quickly dished, so that all may go to the table at once.

Big Rocks.
The Folsom Telegraph says five carloads of granite for the Capitol fence have been shipped from the State quarry, and the rest of the stone will follow without delay. One of the largest pieces, weighing seventeen tons, attracted a great deal of attention as it lay on the car in the railroad yard.

John Carr Moody, Counselor-at-law, Vallejo, Cal., says that he suffered seven years from a cruel joint trouble—rheumatic in its nature and exceedingly painful. Commander Coghlan, of the U. S. Navy, strongly urged him to use St. Jacobs Oil. After continuous use of the remedy the effect was so wonderful that he must congratulate himself specially, and the human race generally, on the perfection of the product.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Here is a happy family. The Napa Cal., Reporter said: "An ounce of keep-your-mouth-shut is better than a pound of apology." The Napa Register replies: "Who asked you for a prescription? And why offer medicine you will not take yourself?" To which the Reporter thus tartly gives reply: "Why throw physic to the dogs? Now, that bit of wit cuts both ways. Does the Reporter refer to its refusal to take its own medicine, or its neglect to offer it to its neighbor."

The GAZETTE dispatches this evening concerning the execution of Guiteau are desultory and disconnected, and relate but few facts of interest. They were apparently made up by some new hand at the business, who endeavored to give as little news as possible. It is, however, gratifying to know that the canting villain has been thoroughly punished for his crime.

The Woodland Cal., Democrat, states that a force of about a dozen laborers abandoned a ranchman in Yolo county the other day because, although rich, he did not half feed them and capped the climax by restricting the supply of soap for their necessary ablutions to once a day. If many of the ranchers are of this kind, it is no wonder harvest hands are scarce in California.

Politics are not exciting much interest just now. Everybody seems to be paying strict attention to Fourth of July arrangements. After the celebration of Independence Day, however, a fresh fire will be kindled under the kettle, and a boom inaugurated.

THE ASSASSIN'S DOOM

He Suffers the Full Penalty of the Law

And is Hanged by the Neck Until He is Dead.

Circumstances Concerning His Last Hours of Life.

WASHINGTON, June 30. Deputy warden Russ was asked to-day how Guiteau deported himself. He said: "The man is as happy as a child. He wants to see nobody but Hicks, and speaks to nobody. The guards are not allowed to speak to him, and he never speaks to them."

"Does he sleep well?" "Yes; he goes to sleep about 9 or 10 o'clock at night, and sleeps like a child till after daylight. He sleeps quietly, without any tossing around, or muttering or waking."

"What does he eat?" "We give him just what he wants. About 8 o'clock he orders his breakfast. He calls for a beefsteak and fried potatoes, fried eggs, rolls and coffee. He eats very heartily, and is an epicure in his diet. He wants his food nicely prepared and delicately served. At 12 o'clock, noon, he calls for his lunch, and it is served; always three poached eggs on toast and a cup of coffee. At 4 o'clock he dines, and his dinner is just like his lunch—three poached eggs on toast and coffee. His meat is cut up for him."

"Don't you give him a knife and fork?"

"No, no knife and fork."

"Nor spoons?" "No, no spoons."

"How does he eat then? With his fingers? Why don't you give him a knife and fork?"

"There is no telling what a man under sentence of death will do. The more quiet the man the closer he has to be watched. It is astonishing to what devices they will resort to kill themselves. Even in spite of the sharpest watch Guiteau might take it into his head to kill himself, and he always acts on the spur of the moment. This man has given us a world of trouble for the past year."

The well-meaning officer heaved a deep sigh, as much as to say, "I wish he was gone;" but he did not make any such unofficial-like observations.

"What has the man actually in his possession?" was asked.

"Only his Bible," was the reply.

"Has he nothing, then, with which he could kill himself?"

"Oh, yes he could kill himself in 15 minutes if he was not watched; provided he so desired he could hang himself with his sheet, or his suspenders, or his handkerchief. No, the only way to do is to watch a man who is under sentence."

"Still you say he appears happy and satisfied?"

"Yes, but it don't do to trust a man under such circumstances; he might change his mind."

Chas. H. Reed, counsel for Guiteau, says: I have seen nothing as yet to shake my conviction that Guiteau will die to-morrow without weakness or faltering. His courage is not that of an ordinary criminal—a mere ruffian who takes pride in dying game. It is rather that of a martyr, who suffers and dies for the sake of some religious principle. I thought at one time that he was beginning to weaken. I saw in the newspapers that a spiritual adviser had been called in, and the thought occurred to me that perhaps Guiteau had begun to realize that he had committed a crime and needed divine forgiveness, and that he wished to make preparations for death. The next time I saw him I said to him:

"Charles, I see by the newspapers that you have called on a minister. Do you feel as if you needed to prepare for death? Do you repent of what you have done?" He looked at me with a wild expression in his eyes, and shouted: "No! I haven't called in any minister. I haven't done anything wrong. A minister came of his own accord. I didn't send for him." Two or three days afterwards I was introduced to Dr. Hicks, whom I had never previously met, and I said to him: "Doctor, has Guiteau ever shown in his talk with you any consciousness of having done wrong, or any feeling of repentance, or desire for forgiveness?" "None, whatever," he replied. "He has maintained consistently throughout that he has done no wrong—that he has simply done God's service, and has nothing to repent of." "Up to the present time," Reed added, "Guiteau talked of his death without any manifestations whatever of fear or dread. He said to me today, 'Mr. Reed,

"WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO WITH MY BODY?"

I told him that was a very painful subject to talk about and that I would rather not go into it, but that he might rest assured his body would be properly cared for. He said: "I don't care particularly what is done with it so long as it is not used for gain." I assured him again that his body should not be desecrated or used for any mercenary purpose. "What do you mean by that?" he inquired. I explained to him the meaning of mercenary and he said, "That's all right. Perhaps that's a better word. I don't want my body used for gain."

In handing to Reed to-day a farewell letter, which he wrote just before bidding him good-bye, Guiteau said: "This, my best friend, is the only compensation I can give you for your services to me. You have never lied to me nor deceived me, while nearly everybody else has. I am going to heaven to-morrow at 1 o'clock and I wish you were going with me."

GUITEAU'S LAST HOURS.

WASHINGTON, June 30—9:45 A. M. Guiteau was very restless during the latter part of the night, not sleeping more than 20 minutes at a time. Towards morning he fell into a sounder sleep from sheer exhaustion. He rose a few minutes after 5 o'clock and breakfasted heartily. At 6:30 when the cook took his breakfast into the cell, Guiteau told him to bring his dinner in at 11 o'clock promptly. Dr. Hicks, who remained at the jail all night, was called into the prisoner's cell as soon as he rose, and held conversation on religious subjects with him. At 8 o'clock Dr. Hicks saw the prisoner again, when he made a request to have a bath and asked Hicks to go out and see the scaffold. Guiteau desired him to arrange with the Warden to have the trap sprung as soon after 12 o'clock as possible. He also expressed considerable anxiety lest some accident should occur, and insisted that Hicks should see that the scaffold and its appurtenances were all in proper condition. After Guiteau had disposed of these matters he read a poem composed by himself, which he called, "Simplicity, or Religious Baby Talk."

HIS TENDER HEART.

After reading it over he attempted to sing it, but broke down in the effort. Guiteau then talked for some time about the future. He remarked that his heart was tender. "I don't think," he said, "I can go through this ordeal without weeping; not because of any great weakness, for principle in me is stronger, but because I am nearer the other world. I hold to the idea that God inspired me."

Guiteau subsequently asked that in his looks all complimentary remarks about President Arthur and his administration be eliminated. Then he presented Hicks the books that have been the companions of his lonely hours. He told Hicks that he wanted him to offer the first prayer on the scaffold, saying he (Guiteau) would then read his favorite scriptural passage—tenth chapter of John—and offer a prayer on his own account. Then he intended he said, to read his poem "Simplicity." He desired to have the execution so arranged that just as he uttered the last word the drop should be sprung. John W. Guiteau arrived at the jail at 9 o'clock and was followed in a few minutes by Warden Crocker. These two gentlemen, with Hicks, had a consultation as to the disposition of the body. At 9:15 the prisoner came out in the corridor and exercised for fifteen minutes. He walked very briskly and made it rather difficult for his guards to keep pace with him. The scene about the jail this morning is unique.

HE QUIETS HIS NERVES WITH A BATH. The office of the jail has been given completely up to reporters, who remained all night. The private office of the Warden has been transformed temporarily into a telegraph office. At nine o'clock there was a constant stream of persons coming into the jail. The scene outside was like that of some great gala occasion. Entertaining colored men had erected booths, from which they served refreshments to the weary and thirsty people. Mounted messengers were speeding to and from the city, and carriages were bringing visitors to the jail. At ten o'clock Guiteau expressed a desire to take a bath. No one but the death-watch was with him. It was quite apparent that the object in bathing was simply to distract his thoughts from approaching death. He evinced increased nervousness, and his uncertain movements, distracted manner and marked tremor in his tones when he attempted to speak impressed the guard with the belief that he was rapidly weakening.

WORKING THE GALLOWS.

At 10:45 A. M. the rotunda was thrown open. The newspaper men at once flocked in. There were a few other people there, besides the jail guard and a squad of artillerymen, who looked down on the scene from high steps leading to the scaffold. Early this morning the prisoners in that part of the jail, the rear Court-yard, where the gallows stands, were all removed to other quarters and locked in cells. At 9 o'clock this morning the jail officers had a rehearsal of the part they are to play in the execution, for the purpose of testing the gallows apparatus. A bag of sand, weighing 160 pounds, was attached to the noose, and the trap was sprung by means of a trigger-rope, which was pulled in one of the cells of the north wing.

Guiteau has not been informed of Mrs. Scoville's presence, and even if he was aware that she was here it is believed he would not desire to have her present. His great desire now seems to be that there shall be no scene and that his programme shall be carried out without any interruption or incident to detract from the heroic picture which he believes is about to present. At 10 o'clock there was a large crowd of newspaper correspondents crowding about the gate leading into Guiteau's corridor, but they could see nothing but the wooden door which screens Guiteau's cell from view. Now and then a guard appeared at the door and sent some message to the warden. At such times those at the gate got a view of the chairs on which the death-watch sat.

GUITEAU'S PRAYER.

11:30 A. M.—After Guiteau had finished copying, at 10 o'clock, 70 policemen arrived at the jail and were posted along the roadway outside the building. In addition to the regular jail guard, all the available men of Battery C, 2nd U. S. Artillery, are now on duty inside the jail. Shortly before 11 o'clock Guiteau called for paper and for 20 minutes busied himself in making a copy of what he terms his prayer on the scaffold. As his hands will be pinioned, Dr. Hicks will hold the manuscript while Guiteau reads. Now that he is employed he appears calmer and is rapidly completing his work of writing in a large, round and legible hand. Preparations for the execution are being made. Guiteau has had a bath and dressed himself and his dinner was served at 11 o'clock. Dr. Hicks is with him. He says he will die game.

After copying his prayer upon the scaffold he began to arrange his dress, putting on a pair of navy-blue trousers. At 10:30 the guard came out of the door and said: "He is ready for Doctor Hicks now and wants him to come in." Another guard who took the message hurried off and soon returned with Hicks, who went into the cell. Guiteau was then reported by the guard to be apparently very composed. He expected that Mrs. Scoville would send some flowers to him, but none had arrived at the time he asked for them. After a short conference with Crocker John W. Guiteau went outside the jail to see his sister. He found her in.

GREAT EXCITEMENT.

Bordering upon hysteria, but for a short time he succeeded in calming her and dissuading her from any attempts to witness the execution. She acknowledged the propriety of such a course, but said she could not possibly remain in the city during all the wretched hours of the morning. She brought with her the flowers which Guiteau asked for, and they were taken to the prisoner. Mrs. Scoville also brought two handsome flower pieces, crosses and anchor, which she will place upon her brother's coffin with her own hands.

A GOOD APPETITE.

11:35 A. M.—While Dr. Hicks was in the prisoners' cell at 11 o'clock Guiteau made some request as to the execution and hangman. Having made copies of his last prayer, poem and other writings, he tore up the originals. He then sent for the jail bootblack and gave him his shoes to be shined. His dinner was brought as the doctor was leaving and he ate with much relish. His dinner consisted of a pound of broiled steak, a dish of fried potatoes, slices of toast and a quart of coffee. Dr. Hicks, when he came out of the cell, said the prisoner had not the slightest fear.

Hicks said: "We have had a pleasant religious talk. He feels now that his preparation is completed and is ready for the last formality. He commits his soul to God with the utmost confidence. I think he will show some emotion, because the nervous strain is so great." Nobody, Dr. Hicks said, had seen the prisoner at that time except himself and the jail officers. At 11 o'clock Dr. A. E. McDonald, of New York, and Dr. Francis Loring, of this city, expert witnesses at the trial of Guiteau, arrived at the jail. Dr. McDonald said he understood an autopsy would be made by three physicians agreed upon by the friends of the condemned man. Afterward the brain would be removed for further examination. The three physicians selected to perform the autopsy are Dr. Lamb, who made the autopsy of the President, Dr. Sauers and Dr. Hartigan, Deputy Coroner of this city. Dr. Loring expects to make a thorough examination of the prisoner's eyes.

EXAMINING THE SCAFFOLD.

Guiteau stood the test well. At 10 o'clock Dr. Hicks and John W. Guiteau went with General Crocker to the scaffold, together with a number of guards. John W. Guiteau ascended the steps, and carefully examined the structure, handling carefully and inspecting all the fixtures, both above and below the platform. A telegram from New York, signed by J. B. Bunnell, received about 10 o'clock by Hicks, asked if the sender could obtain possession of Guiteau's body, to exhibit for the benefit of the Young Men's Christian Association. Dr. Hicks paid no attention to the message.

ORDER OF PROCESSION

To the scaffold as agreed upon this morning is as follows: Warden Crocker and his officers will appear first, followed by Dr. Hicks. Then will come the prisoner in charge of two guards. Behind them will walk, two by two, Jones, Hudson, Johnson and Crocker, jail officers, the latter a brother of the warden.

HIS NECK BROKEN.

1 P. M.—The crowd outside the jail has got word that Guiteau has been hanged and is reading the air with shouts so that it is impossible to hear voices inside the jail. Guiteau's neck was broken by the fall, and not a movement of limb or body was detected. Death ensued instantly. At 11 A. M. Mrs. Scoville, Guiteau's sister, who had said yesterday that she would not come to see the hanging, appeared at the jail door and demanded to be admitted. The Warden, knowing that her presence at the execution would certainly cause a scene, had given orders that she be not admitted. The guards told her that she could not enter. The woman first begged to be admitted and then denounced the officials for their brutal conduct. John Guiteau was sent for and he succeeded in pacifying his sister. Guiteau was hanged at 12:40, and died without a struggle.

Building the President.

WASHINGTON, June 30. Roscoe Conkling held an interview with President Arthur in the interest of the foreign steamship companies of New York. Soon afterward Congressman Denster and Guenther went to the White House to learn if it were true that the immigrant bill will be vetoed, and found that such was the case. Vigorous English was used on both sides and threats made that the bill will be passed over the President's veto.

MT. ST. MARY'S ACADEMY.

Interesting Commencement Exercises on Wednesday Evening.

The fifth annual commencement of Mt. St. Mary's took place in the presence of a large number of the parents and friends of the children. The concert hall was handsomely decorated with evergreens and flowers, and over the stage hung a magnificent canopy, covered with red and white roses, in the center of which was a scroll, "Class of '82," in gilt letters. Directly under this was a large bell made of beautiful white flowers. The beautiful collection of flowers and bright sashes and hosiery of the children presented a scene altogether charming. The crowns and prizes were presented by Rev. Father Nugent, pastor of the Catholic Church. Miss Katie Biggs and Miss Mary Young deserve special mention for the beautiful rendition of their vocal solos. The drama of "Sylvia's Jubilee" was worthy of much admiration. The costumes were grand, and Miss Eugenia Germain did her part excellently, as "Queen Esther." She was dressed in long robes of pale blue and purple velvet, all spangled with silver and ornamented with deep silver fringe. The other characters to this play were Jewish maidens, and were dressed accordingly. Two little girls, acted as train bearers to the Queen and two others walked before her, scattering rose leaves. All the young ladies acquitted themselves creditably, and drew forth rounds of applause from the large crowd present. All were the recipients of large baskets and bouquets of most beautiful flowers. The comic farce, "Taking a Photograph," took well, and Miss Mary Alt did admirably in her part as "Cousin Grundy," and kept the audience in roars at her ridiculous ideas of photography. Miss Mary Bourgeois deserves mention for the excellent manner in which she performed her solo, "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground." At the conclusion Rev. Father Nugent presented the young ladies with some prizes in the different branches. Miss Mary Alt's valedictory was well delivered, and the beautiful and touching language of this young lady, as she bid farewell to all, was worthy of much comment and admiration. Mr. R. H. Lindsay then delivered a closing address, and the large and handsome silver ewer was handed off and won by Miss Lizzie Blaisdell, of Glendale. The exhibition was a grand success, and will long be remembered as being one of the most pleasing episodes of the academy.

Run Over by a Locomotive.

A young Indian boy, in attempting to climb upon the cowcatcher of a V. & T. locomotive, last evening, misadvised his footing, fell under the wheels, and had his foot and ankle mashed to a jelly. Dr. Bergman had the boy removed to the County Hospital, and this morning amputated the injured limb.

It is surprising that more children are not injured or killed by passing trains and locomotives. White boys, as well as Indians, make a practice of jumping on nearly every train coming in to this station, and unless parents take interest enough in their children to keep them away from trains, the railroad companies ought to adopt some rule to prevent it.

A Tough Man Squelched.

Last night about 11 o'clock a partially-inebriated individual was making himself very fresh around the Arcade. He had just arrived on the emigrant train, and was getting his first experience in a Pacific settlement. He stood on the outer edge of the sidewalk and proclaimed that he was the "greatest American bung-starter," and would sit down on anybody who denied the proposition. While he was making noise enough to disturb a graveyard, one of the employees of the hotel walked up and created a collision under his ear, which seemed to suggest to him that remoteness is better than discretion, and he accordingly lit out.

The Old Monte Game.

A young man who came from the East on last night's express, had a costly experience which will be a profitable lesson to him. Somewhere out on the desert—he couldn't tell exactly where—an innocent-looking old granger roped him into a three-card chuck game and cinched him for everything he had in his clothes. He is on his way to Bodie to see his brother, who has a milk-ranch a few miles south of that town. The lesson he learned on the cars will probably serve him well in the barbarous settlement he is going to.

The State Orphan's Home.

(Carson Tribune.)

An occasional visit to this institution, although it be a mere walk around, proves it to be one of the best conducted public buildings of the Pacific coast. The children are as well cared for as they would be in any ordinary family home, and the Superintendent and his wife are much beloved by the waifs.

The New Indian Agent.

John S. Mayhugh, Elko, has received his commission as agent for the Western Shoshones from Washington and to-morrow will take charge of the Dark Valley Reservation in Eastern Nevada.

SAD NEWS.

Death of One of Plumas County's Most Promising Young Business Men.

B. B. Hughes, of the stage firm of Meylert & Hughes, Quincy, Cal., died very suddenly at the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, at 2:30 P. M. yesterday. Mr. Hughes left here on business last Sunday evening apparently as well as ever, and his untimely taking off is a great loss to the people of Plumas county. He was a young man only 24 years of age and possessed of rare business qualifications. He had the confidence of the people in his section of the country, and leaves a young wife and many warm personal friends both in business and social circles to mourn his death. He was a member of Quincy Lodge, No. 88, F. and A. M., also a Knight Templar, Lassen Commandery, No. 18, Susanville, Cal. His remains will arrive on the express train to-morrow morning and be taken to his home at Quincy. Members of Reno Lodge, No. 13, F. & A. M., are requested to be at the train in the morning to assist in re-shipping the remains.

Card of Thanks.

We, the undersigned teachers of the Reno public school, desire to express our hearty appreciation of the efficient manner in which Mr. N. J. Roff has performed the duties devolving upon him. During our intercourse with him we have ever found him kind, obliging and faithful in the discharge of his duties as janitor. Signed by: Orvis Ring, S. D. Bristow, M. P. Henry, J. A. Sanda, E. J. Knowlton, Genie Payne, Ella C. McNeely, S. H. Wilson.

A Narrow Escape.

The Silver State says: Last Thursday, as Mr. and Mrs. Berry were crossing in the Humboldt river near Beowawe, the team became unmanageable, and one of the horses got his fore feet over the tongue causing both horses to fall. They were immediately cut loose from the wagon, and in their efforts to gain a footing they only entangled themselves the more, resulting in the drowning of both horses. The occupants of the wagon were greatly frightened but escaped unhurt.

A Sheriff's Movements.

Sheriff Showers of Mono county, Cal., arrived from the west this morning. He took two prisoners to the San Quentin and returns with a Chinaman named Ah Pah, who was sentenced to the California state prison for thirteen years, for shooting off his pistol carelessly, and has been granted a new trial. He didn't seem to worry himself much about his prisoner, but at the same time he had his weather eye on him.

Flowers Wanted.

The Committee of Arrangements for the Fourth of July earnestly solicit the chosen young ladies for the car of state and all others interested to take to P. B. Comstock, at the office of the Truckee stables, as early as eight o'clock A. M. of the Fourth, floral decorations in the form of wreaths, vines, etc., for the purpose of decorating the same.

Personal.

Postmaster Putnam of Bodie is in town, looking after mining business and inspecting the Kinkead mill, which he thinks is just the thing for Homer district, where the veins are rich and owned by men who cannot raise means to erect mills of the regular sort.

I. Barnett offers, at reduced rates, a large portion of his elegant stock of dry and fancy goods. Read his advertisement in another column and see for yourself. Many articles he will sell at cost and some things at even below. You are sure of securing a bargain at his mammoth store.

From Sierra Valley.

Mr. A. Wiltzie is in from Sierra Valley and reports his hay prospect never better. He expects to put up three hundred tons of excellent hay. He fought the hoppers for eight days successfully, and reports them as moving bodily to the westward—that is, leaving the valley.

To Land Leaguers.

A meeting of the Reno branch of the Irish National Land League is called for next Monday, July 3rd, in Hoffman's new hall, at 8 o'clock P. M. All members are desired to attend, and all who wish to join should also be present.

A car full of Chinamen went east this morning, all of whom were cigar makers engaged for New York manufacturers. We will soon have a prime article of white-labor cigars from the metropolis—made by Chinamen.

Plumas Items.

The following scraps are taken from the Greenville Bulletin of the 28th: One day last week Henry Rule, blacksmith at the Indian Valley mine, had his foot severely crushed.

While at work in the Indian Valley mine on Saturday morning breaking rock, John McDonald was dangerously out in the eye by a piece of quartz.

The owners of the Robertson mine in Genesee Valley have bought from the Savercool mining company the first mill put up at that mine, and will at once proceed to remove it to the new location.

Gus Morandi, a miner in the Indian Valley mine, was hurt by falling rock on Saturday morning; while at work in one of the stopes in the mine a mass of rock gave way overhead, slightly grazing his head and one of his knees; a large piece caught him on the foot, crushing it badly, and taking off the big toe entirely.

As the Prattville stage, was passing along the grade this side of Bidwell's Bridge the nut came off the axle on the off front wheel, letting that end of the wagon down. The step of the driver's seat struck the horses and they started to run; at the same instant the driver was pitched from his seat and dragged some distance but he held to the lines till the horses stopped, and was not hurt. Lucy Chappuis who was in the stage at the time, was thrown out, the hind wheel passing over her foot crushing it severely. The concussion caused by the fall made her unconscious for some time.

At Belfast, Honey Lake Valley, swarms of crickets made their appearance, coming from the hills toward the farm of Mr. A. Merrill; he discovered their approach and at once set to work building a line of sagebrush fence, this he set on fire and kept it burning until the crickets were diverted from their course and turned away in a direction where they will do little, if any, harm.

Progress of the C. & C.

The Carson and Colorado railroad track is now laid to the summit of the White Mountains, twenty-five miles from Belleville. The grade by the mountain is about as circuitous as the Glenbrook road. A station is in progress of erection at the summit, and the freight from thence to Benton and Bishop Creek is now being hauled. A mill is being built at Benton, and very rich ore is found in that locality. The railroad company is delivering salt from Salt Marsh to all the mills along or near the line of road. The Indian Queen, six miles from the road, is doing a fine business, the mine paying well. Luning is a growing town. There are three stores, six prosperous saloons, a butcher market and any number of daily fights. A town site has been laid out at Soda Springs, ten miles beyond Luning, and at this point a copper smelter is in course of construction. In Garfield District from 100 to 200 men are prospecting and daily developing rich leads.

Lots of Hoppers.

When crossing Sierra Valley last week on the way from Reno, James Taylor found the grasshoppers so thick that the wheels of his wagon crushed enough of them to moisten the dust, and cause it to roll up on the wheels like mud. The pests were so thick that in jumping they constantly dashed against each other and made a sound like rushing water.

Northern Travel.

G. W. Meylert, who starts a line of stages between Reno and Susanville to-morrow morning, has made arrangements with the C. P. R. R. Co. whereby passengers from the north can get tickets through to San Francisco at greatly reduced rates. This arrangement will throw all the travel from that country via Reno.

Wine House Barbers.

John Belz is still at the Wine House, and has made special arrangements for the Fourth of July for the accommodation of his patrons. You need not wait for a shave, for he has men enough to accommodate everyone.

Those Toy Pistols.

The Sacramento Record Union says: "The Fourth of July is near at hand, and every boy who can procure one of those dangerous weapons, a toy pistol, is doing so. In almost every showcase along J and K streets, where notions are sold, those death-dealing instruments are exposed in a very enticing manner to the view of the young Americans, and there probably is but little doubt that before the week rolls around they will be the means of furnishing work for the coroner and good items for local reporters."

The above is applicable to Reno as well as Sacramento. Two accidents have occurred here within the past week from boys playing with these dangerous "toys," and dealers ought not to sell them. They are not only dangerous to boys that handle them, but to everyone in their vicinity.

Silver Glance.

Thomas Kennedy, who has been over at Silver Glance District putting up machinery, speaks very highly of that new district. He says the Reno company has a small bonanza in sight, and when the new mill commences to crush ore steadily the output of bullion will be large. The ledges so far as uncovered are narrow but very rich in free gold. Several claims show up well. Mr. Kennedy, who is now in Bodie, will return to Silver Glance after the Fourth.
